Jane Cummings, who was presented several days ago, was again presented this morning or stealing five horses. She was released yesterday. The owner of one of the horses appeared this morning and identified his property. The case was continued.

A SOLDIER BADLY WOUNDED.—Yesterday evening a party of soldiers, under the influence of liquor, went to the house of Rebecca Waters, on Main street, near Green, one of the law-steps in the city, and there got into a difficulty with the wife inmates. During the night a soldier belonging to hospital No. 7, who goes by the name of Peter Ayers, was badly wounded by one of the women by being struck over the head with a bottle. One of the women, the woman endeavored to rob the soldier. One of the women, J. M. M. went to the jail and gave herself up, and was released. The case will be brought before Judge Johnson this evening.

AMONG SCENES.—At the Fair Grounds yesterday a young man, without any bridge on, got into the ring, and when the marshal attempted to drive him out by his muleship took his place in the director's stand. He was quickly driven out into the ring, and on at once to drive him out of the ring, the marshal, who is a muleship, took his place on the director's stand, and the audience were greatly delighted.

MEMPHIS AT THE NASHVILLE DEPOT.—Our 1st express and most complete round trip ever built in the West is now being erected by the Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company at the depot. When finished the house will be capable of holding sixteen locomotives, with a four-car cub in the center. It is without exception the finest in the country, and the company deserve great credit for their enterprise in this matter.

REHEARINGS AT THE FAIR.—Persons visiting the State Fair should not forget that there is established on the grounds a Walker's Exchange, under the special charge of our old friend John Koelop, who has on hand a supply of every thing wanted by the weary.

His liquors are the finest, while his cigars are as good as can be obtained in the city. Give him a call.

LOOMS.—In the upper story of the Floral Hall, among the sewing-machines at the State Fair, is Mendenhall's superior parlor hand-loom, which excites general admiration. In the Parlor Hall, near the entrance to the Fair Grounds, is Henderson's loom, which we have not seen in operation. It is an odd-looking affair, but may work well nevertheless.

Louisville THEATRE.—There was a large audience at the theater last night to witness the new play of "Clouds with Silver Linings." The "Princess," by Max Thompson, is one of the fine pieces of acting that we have ever seen. The play will be repeated again to-night, together with the farce of "The Limerick B." etc.

I. O. O. F.—At a called meeting of the Grand Lodge, which convened yesterday evening at one o'clock, P. G. M. J. M. Armstrong was elected Grand R. P. S. T. to the Grand Lodge of the United States (in place of P. G. S. Samuel L. Adams, resigned), which meets in Baltimore on next Monday morning.

WOOD'S THEATRE.—Another full house greeted Mrs. Macarthy and Mr. Vincent last night, on the occasion of their third appearance in our city. The bill for to-night is "Farewell, I Was" and "Married Rake," Mrs. Macarthy and Mr. Vincent appearing in both pieces.

ARRAIS.—Thos. Ray arrested a man named Wm. S. Slocum, who entered Dr. Clark's house and stole a silver-dusted candlestick. He also arrested Chas. Shilling, charged with stealing a box of colo-cit, which can be seen at the Poole Office this morning, when the cases will be disposed of.

ESTERN MAIL.—The Eastern mail failed to reach our city yesterday, on account of the train failing to connect at Seymour. In consequence of this detention we were without our Cincinnati and Eastern papers.

SEWING MACHINES.—The working of Grover & Bell's sewing-machines, yesterday, in Flor Hall, by Mr. Bell, especially laudable, evoking general admiration. The like has not been seen witnessed.

WE WANTED.—We understand that the work on the Bellville road is being pushed forward with great vigor.

The display of fruit at Flor Hall is alone well worth a visit to the Fair.

KENTUCKY STATE FAIR—SECOND DAY.—Yesterday morning dark clouds overhung the earth, and about 10 o'clock a light rain set in, which deterred many from being present at the Fair Grounds; but, notwithstanding this, the attendance was large, there being nearly five thousand persons present. The rain was but light, and in the afternoon it cleared off, the sun came out, and we had a most pleasant evening. The exhibition of thoroughbred horses was very fine, and in a number of the rings the competition was exciting. The noble animals that gained the premium and certificates are said to have been scarcely superior to their unsuccessful competitors. Such a large attendance as was on the beautiful grounds was very encouraging to those interested in the Fair, and the noble animals, as they pranced around the ring, seemed to appreciate the shouts that went up from the vast multitude that filled the amphitheatre. We annex the awards of premiums that were made yesterday.
